The Way You Think

“In order to overcome the biggest challenges we will face in personal and business life we must train our brain to think properly and respond accordingly during times of extreme stress. Chadd is here to share with you the mindset tactics, techniques and procedures (TTP’s) that he has learned and applied throughout his journey.

These simple and applicable mindset TTP’s have enabled Chadd to conquer seemingly unconquerable tasks from Basic Underwater Demolition SEAL Training to running 250 consecutive miles across the Arizona high mountain desert.

The same tools Chadd uses to endure these massive physical and mental challenges can be immediately applied by anyone, anywhere to overcome and accomplish their personal and business goals.”

Culture can make or break a team's success. As business leaders, we can either actively establish it, grow it, protect it, and improve it to help increase the success of the team... or we allow it to work against the success of our teams. From professional baseball player, to a top salesman in the nation, to now President of an industry leading brand in the Sports and Nutrition space, hear from Sal Frisella on what it takes to build a winning culture inside a team of a few... or a few hundred and beyond.

But what if there’s another way? What if fame, money, and power aren’t all that we should be chasing?

In this keynote, Tim Schurrer invites you to reevaluate your definition of success and learn a new, freer way to go about achieving it. Own Your Attitude

Owning your attitude means choosing positivity and resilience in the face of adversity. Acknowledge that challenges are a part of life and embrace the belief that you can learn, adapt, and improve in any situation. Taking ownership of your response, no matter the situation, is key because it empowers you to control the situation.

Iterative Decision-Making

Being decisive is a critical trait required for a leader to develop, especially during uncertain times. This does not mean you need to perfectly predict the future and a good leader doesn't make big moves based on an assumption they know what will happen. Taking incremental steps towards the objective and making adjustments based on live feedback is core to iterative decision-making and success as a leader.
